Special Event – January 7, 2012

Noon – 1:00pm

Join us for a hot dog and soda and hear Joshua G. Sankes discuss
“What parents and players need to know”

Joshua G. Sankes Basketball Biography

Josh was a professional basketball player for five years and played for various countries and teams. Josh played basketball in the United States and around the world including the countries of Italy, Turkey, Yugoslavia and Poland. While playing overseas he won a championship and was voted M.V.P of the league.

Josh started his college career at Rutgers University, but transferred to The College of the Holy Cross after his sophomore year. At Holy Cross, he led the team to its first NCAA appearance in over 10 years. During his college career he led the NCAA in rebounds, was third in blocked shots and second in the nation with “double doubles.” His senior year he was named an all American player and Chevrolet player of the game in the NCAA tournament. His college season was featured in sports author John Feinstein’s book The Last Amateurs.

Josh has taught and lectured at basketball clinics all over the world. He was also asked to represent the NBA in their “Read to Achieve” program. Josh enjoys giving back and passing on the knowledge he has learned throughout his career.
